

A

B

Panel B shows the ten high-effect genes identified from all 25 freshwater populations. Blue circles and green triangles denote Alaska and British Columbia; red outlines identify recently colonized populations. Purple and black solid lines represent mean and standard deviation, respectively.